REDIFINING GREATNESS

BOX VS LINE

VS

Critical Leadership Questions

- What is shaping your leadership trajectory
- Where is this trajectory headed?

When the Journey becomes PERFECTION

- Winning is not pursued but rather ensued.
- The right is expected and the wrong is punished. All our players hear is that they fall short and can never be good enough. This only drives a performance based identity.

When the journey becomes PERFORMANCE

- Box is always telling people what to do. Line is telling them who they are.
 - Don't turn it over! vs Be ball tough!
- Coaching now moves from controlling to empowering.

Learning zone vs Performance zone

- Creating space where people can be exposed without feeling self-conscious or judged is vital to growing in healthy confidence and skill.

Box mentality is anti-fearless

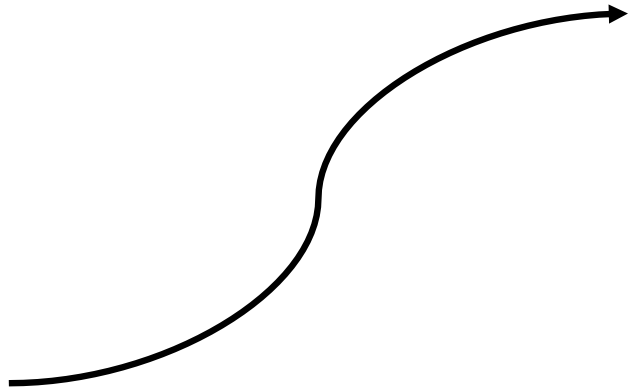

- We all want success, heroic and big moment, but you can't have those things without letting go of safety, security, comfort, and control. You have to choose between control (box) and letting go (line).

The bottom line is this: Greatness favors the fearless.

- Coaching fearless is the yeast instead of the bread pan. It causes others to rise to their potential wherever it enters rather than form others around its constraints.

The Line

- A shift in priority from coaching basketball to coaching people first.

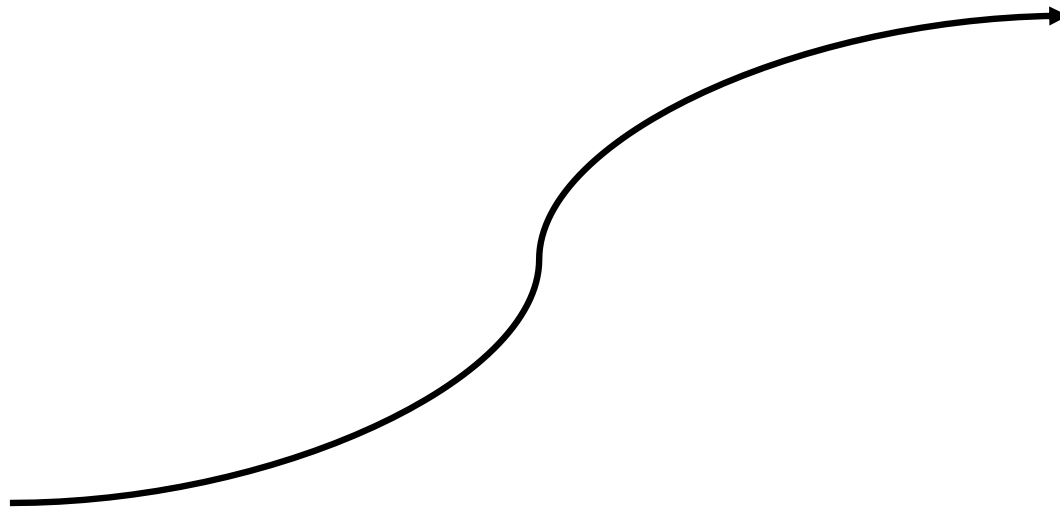

- External Status (Behavior)
- Identity in Doing
- Position
- Expectations = Perfection
- Failure Exposes
- Creates Guarded/Closed
- Spirituality: Religious Duty

VS

- Internal Status (Heart)
- Identity in Becoming
- Movement
- Expectations = Honest & Forward
- Failure Grows You
- Creates Transparency/Vulnerability
- Spirituality: New Life (Christ) In Me

How's your spiritual life?

TWO IMPORTANT QUESTIONS

1. I don't care where you are at. Just be honest about where you are at.
2. And, be willing to move forward

Small Group Discussion

- What is one way you can become a line coach?
- What does the journey towards Christ look like for you?
